

STORAGETEK DIAGRAMS

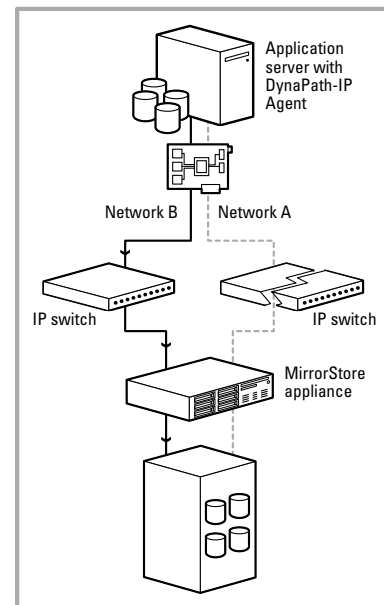

Over the last two years, I had become StorageTek's diagram specialist because I have a balance of abilities: I have an aptitude for understanding the technical concepts and also an aptitude for translating that technical content into diagrams that communicate the message in an aesthetically pleasing way.

1 Normal traffic flows on Network A. Status packets peer deep into the network to identify faults.

2 Failure occurs at one of the switches. A series of tests pinpoints the switch as the cause and the best course of action is determined.

3 Traffic fails over to Network B without data loss.